WILDCATS, BULLDOGS SQUARE OFF ON THURSDAY

The University of Kentucky women's soccer team will be seeking its first Southeastern Conference win on Thursday as it travels to take on Mississippi State at the MSU Soccer Complex. The match will mark the 20th meeting between the Wildcats and Bulldogs in program history, with UK looking to extend its all-time series record 14-5. The last meeting between the two teams was on Sept. 29, 2019, in Lexington with Mississippi State posting a 2-1 win and Hannah Richardson scoring UK's lone goal in the 17th minute. The Wildcats were victorious the last time they traveled to Starkville, winning 1-0 on Oct. 8, 2017, behind a goal from Miranda Jimenez in the 58th minute.

The Wildcats enter Thursday's match with a 6-4-2 mark on the season, most recently dropping a 2-1 decision to South Carolina on Sunday at home. Kentucky is 1-2-1 on the road this year, having lost to then-No. 15 South Florida on Aug. 29 and Florida on Sept. 23. Three Wildcats in Marissa Bosco, Jordyn Rhodes, and Richardson all have at least one multi-goal game under their belt so far this season. Richardson paves the way with a trio of two-goal games on the year against Louisiana, Oakland, and Bellarmine, while Jordyn Rhodes netted the second hat trick of her career versus Marshall and has a team-high nine goals.

ROSTER RUNDOWN

- Kentucky's 2021 roster features 32 players — including 11 newcomers and 21 returners — for a total of three fifth-years, three seniors, eight juniors, six sophomores, and 12 freshmen.
- Eleven of the 12 freshmen are true first-years and include five defenders, two midfielders, two forwards, and two goalkeepers. Although now playing in her freshman season, Matilda Liljefors joined the Wildcats' program during Spring 2021.
- Five countries are represented on the roster, including Denmark (5), Germany (2), Iceland (2), Sweden (1) and the United States (22).
- In the United States, 12 states are represented on the team, including Florida (3), Illinois (3), Michigan (3), Ohio (3), Indiana (2), North Carolina (2), California (1), Georgia (1), Kentucky (1), Maryland (1), Texas (1), and Virginia (1).
- The 21 returning players are responsible for 100 percent (16 of 16) of goals scored, 98 percent (113 of 115) of shots taken, 100 percent (51 of 51) of shots on goal, and 100 percent (eight of eight) of assists during the 2020 season.

DON'T SLEEP ON R&R

The forward duo of Jordyn Rhodes and Hannah Richardson have returned to the frontline once again this fall, now with two seasons of experience in the blue and white under their belt. The 11 goals scored by Rhodes and the two from Richardson accounted for 87 percent of Kentucky's goals during the 2020-21 season, and the pair combined for 62 percent of UK's goals in 2019. Rhodes now leads UK's roster in career goals at 28 while Richardson sits in second with 18 on her career.

The pair have already gotten off to a quick start in 2021, taking command of UK's attack. Rhodes leads the team with nine goals followed closely by Richardson with eight. Richardson assisted one of Rhodes' goals in the 53rd minute on the road at ECU on Sept. 9, and then Rhodes then returned the favor against Murray State on Sept. 12 by assisting Richardson's golden goal 37 seconds into the first overtime period to seal the win.

Together, their combined 17 goals rank fourth nationally for top scoring duos so far during the 2021 season.

Both Rhodes and Richardson find themselves on the SEC leaderboard heading into the rest of league action. Rhodes ranks second with nine goals, followed closely by Richardson who's tied for third with eight. Additionally, Rhodes' 41 shots ranks fourth while Richardson's 31 attempts are good enough to be tied for ninth.

Although Richardson saw limited minutes in 2020 due to a preseason injury, the dynamic duo joined forces for a thrilling victory at home in the regular season finale against Florida. With a header assist from Rhodes, Richardson found the back of the net in the 67th minute to give UK a 2-1 lead. Then, no more than 12 minutes later, Rhodes tapped the ball in the net after a long cross from Richardson to secure a 3-1 Wildcat victory.

Rhodes led the team — and, as a matter of fact, the SEC — in several categories last year, including shots per game (3.78), goals (10), goals per game (1.11), points (21), and points per game (2.33). Despite sitting out the first two games with a minor injury, Richardson launched 12 shots and five on frame, notched two goals, and tallied one assist in the seven games she saw action in.

As freshmen in 2019, Richardson and Rhodes tied for the team lead in goals, scoring eight each — five more goals than anyone else on the roster. In fact, the pair were toe-to-toe in nearly every statistical category, each scoring one game-winning goal, dishing out

ON TOP OF THE SEC LEADERBOARD

The Wildcats have made their presence known in the Southeastern Conference standings through the first 12 games of the 2021 campaign, finding themselves on the leaderboard in several categories. As of Sept. 27, Jordyn Rhodes ranks second in the league with nine goals, followed by Hannah Richardson who is tied for third with eight.

Rhodes is second in the league standings with 23 points and ranks fourth with 1.92 points per game. Her 41 shots also ranks fourth, and she is one of five SEC players to record at least three goals in a given contest. Her six points and eight shots against Marshall both sit in third in SEC individual game-highs, and her four multi-point games so far is good enough to be tied for first in the league.

In net, freshman Laura Nielsen is second in the SEC with 47 saves and third with 3.92 saves per game. Her .797 save percentage ranks fifth in the league and she is also one of only seven SEC goalkeepers who have recorded at least two shutouts thus far. Her career-high 11 saves versus Dayton ranks second, too.

Collectively, Kentucky ranks fourth in the SEC with 197 shots and fifth with 28 goals. UK's 76 points and 2.33 goals per game sits in sixth and its 20 assists is tied for seventh.

GOLDEN GIRL

It was a race to the finish during Kentucky's home game against Murray State on Sept. 12. The Wildcats and Racers were forced into overtime after being locked at two goals apiece at the end of regulation, but UK wasted no time sealing the victory. A loose header off a UK corner was punched away by Murray State's goalkeeper towards Jordyn Rhodes, whose attempt was blocked by a defender. Receiving the rebound right in front of the goal line, Hannah Richardson tapped it in 37 seconds into the first overtime period for the golden goal. Richardson already has three multi-goal games so far in 2021, all from scoring two goals in a single contest. The first multi-goal game of her career came on Aug. 26 versus Louisiana, and she then netted another pair against both Oakland on Sept. 5 and Bellarmine on Sept. 19.

RHODES IN THE RECORD BOOK

Jordyn Rhodes had a standout performance in the 2021 home opener against Marshall on Aug. 22. The junior scored all three of UK's goals (53', 60', 67') for the second hat trick of her career, the first which came in the SEC Tournament First Round versus Florida on Nov. 13, 2020. Following her three-goal effort, she is now just the second Wildcat to ever record more than one hat trick in their time in the blue and white, joining Cheryl Shimovetz who had two back in 1992.

Rhodes is one of only five Wildcats to ever score at least three goals in a given contest, with the last one before her own 2020 performance dating back to 2006 from Guiliana Lopez. Additionally, Rhodes is just the fifth UK player to have at least six points in one match. Her 11 goals from the 2020-21 campaign ranks fifth all-time in program history for an individual season as well, and she has already found the back of the net nine times thus far in 2021.

NOT ON LAURA'S GOAL

Playing all but 32 minutes, Kentucky goalkeeper Laura Nielsen has started every game in net during her inaugural season with the Wildcats thus far, including four overtime games. She produced a career-high 11 saves against Dayton, just a few days after setting a former career high of seven at No. 15 South Florida, which included a clutch penalty kick stop in the 28th minute.

The Odense, Denmark native has recorded two shutouts this season, doing so in UK's 5-0 victory over Louisiana at home and then again in a 6-0 win against ECU on the road, as well as team shutouts versus Oakland and Bellarmine. Her 47 saves through the first 12 matches and her 3.92 saves per game rank second and third, respectively, in the SEC standings. She sits in fifth with a .797 save percentage and is also ranked second in the league with her game-high and career-high 11 saves against Dayton.

OFF TO A HOT START

The University of Kentucky women's soccer team is off to a hot start in 2021. The 21 goals it scored through the first nine matches is well over the 15 goals scored during the entire nine-game fall slate in 2020. While four UK players accounted for the 15 goals last season, seven Wildcats have already found the back of the net, including Jordyn Rhodes, Hannah Richardson, and Marissa Bosco with at least one multi-goal game. UK has also recorded 20 assists so far this season, 12 more than the eight registered all of last year.

The six goals recorded at ECU on Sept. 9 are the most in a single game under head coach Ian Carry, besting the previous record of five set against both Louisiana on Aug. 26, 2021, and Florida on Nov. 13, 2020. It is also the most goals recorded in a given contest since the seven the Wildcats scored versus Eastern Kentucky back in 2013.

THE RHODE(S) LESS TRAVELED

Now in her junior season, Jordyn Rhodes is already building upon her sensational sophomore campaign. The forward from South Lebanon, Ohio concluded the 2020 regular season in a league of her own, as she was the outright SEC leader in shots per game, goals, goals per game, points, and points per game:

- Shots per game: 3.78
- Goals: 10 (led by four)
- Goals per game: 1.11
- Points: 21 (led by five)
- Points per game: 2.33

Rhodes was also tied for first in the nation in 2020 after going 5-for-5 on penalty kicks. She had three games where she scored multiple goals, doing so in the season opener at Vanderbilt and the season closer against Florida, and the first hat trick of her career came in the first round of the SEC Tournament against the Gators. Ironically, Rhodes also scored multiple goals in the season opener and the season closer as a freshman in 2019.

Rhodes' successful individual season allowed her to earn the prestigious All-SEC First Team recognition, the first All-SEC selection of her career, and marked UK's first All-SEC First Team selection since Courtney Raetzman in 2015. She also landed on the 2020-21 MAC Hermann Watch List and was named to the 2020 USCA All Southeast-Region Team.

She was named the SEC Offensive Player of the Week on November 10, 2020, after helping UK defeat Florida in the fall finale with two goals and a game-winning assist. It was the first time Kentucky had beaten Florida since 2014 and just the fifth time overall in the all-time series. Her SEC Offensive Player of the Week honor was Kentucky's first SEC Player of the Week since Evangeline Soucie in 2017 and the first SEC Offensive Player of the Week since Zoë Swift in 2014.

WATCH OUT FOR THESE FOUR CATS

On Aug. 18, the SEC announced the 2021 Preseason Watch List. Four Wildcats — Jordyn Rhodes, Julia Grosso, Maria Olsen, and Úlfa Úlfarsdóttir — were named to the list along with 56 other SEC players. This is the second year Rhodes has earned a preseason nod from the league while Grosso, Olsen, and Úlfarsdóttir are appearing on the list for the first time.

In 2020, Rhodes led the SEC in goals (10), goals per game (1.11), points (21), points per game (2.33), and shots per game (3.78) and went 5-for-5 on penalty kicks. She was also named to the 2020 USCA All Southeast-Region Team, as well as the 2020-21 MAC Hermann Watch List.

A staple of the Wildcats' attack, Grosso is a vocal and decisive forward who has improved tremendously since arriving in Lexington in 2017. The fifth-year senior from Sunrise, Florida, who is serving as team captain for the second straight year, tallied one goal and one assist last season.

Joining the Wildcats from Oksboel, Denmark, Olsen proved to be a threat in the midfield during her rookie season. A starter in every game last year, she recorded 22 shots — including six on goal — and logged more than 800 minutes. A technical and tactical player, the now-sophomore also found herself on the SEC All-Freshman Team.

Úlfarsdóttir returns for her sophomore year after starting all games during the 2020 fall season, totaling five shots and playing nearly 900 minutes. Hailing from Hafnarfjörður, Iceland, the midfielder had her first career goal in the first round of the SEC Tournament.

GUESS WHO'S BACK...BACK AGAIN

The UK women's soccer program is back...and back stronger than ever before. The Wildcats have returned 21 of 25 letterwinners from the 2020 season, including 10 players on last year's starting lineup. The 21 returning players are responsible for 100 percent (16 of 16) of goals scored, 98 percent (113 of 115) of shots taken, 100 percent (51 of 51) of shots on goal, and 100 percent (eight of eight) of assists during the 2020 season.

Three players have opted to return for their fifth year. Midfielder Marissa Bosco as well as forwards Julia Grosso and Miranda Jimenez will wear the blue and white once again this year, continuing to make an impact both on and off the field. The trio combined for 20 percent of goals scored in 2019, 21 percent in 2018, and 22 percent in 2017. They also accounted for 25 percent of assists in 2020 and 27 percent in 2019.

NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK

While Kentucky boasts ample experience with its returning players, the team also has added plenty of talent with the freshman class. The Kentucky coaching staff has worked hard and purposefully with regards to specific positions on the recruiting trail, and their effort has most certainly paid off. The 11 newcomers possess the right attributes and characteristics that complement the existing roster, which in turn will elevate the program as the Wildcats continue on their upward trajectory.

This season's freshman class features five defenders, two midfielders, two forwards, and two goalkeepers. They represent three countries - Denmark, Germany, and the United States — as well as six states — Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, and Virginia. The talent and experience the first-years bring to the pitch provide depth in every position as the Wildcats embark on a competitive season. Three of the first-years, Lilly Huber, Sara Makoben-Blessing, and Laura Nielsen, earned a starting role in their collegiate debut at Purdue.

CARRY ENTERS FIFTH SEASON

There is no doubt this is an exciting time for head coach Ian Carry as he enters his fifth season at the helm of UK women's soccer program with a unique outlook. With three full years of recruiting classes as the head coach, Carry will continue to illustrate UK's improved and impressive depth this year. Last season, Carry welcomed seven newcomers to the team, including 2020 SEC All-Freshman Team selection Maria Olsen. This season, Carry has added 11 true freshmen, including four players who already bring a wealth of international experience to the pitch.

CARRY COMPLETES COACHING STAFF

Before preseason, Carry announced the addition of Hayden Hollinger to UK's coaching staff, joining Paul Babba and Jim Chapman as an assistant coach. Hollinger spent the last two years as a graduate assistant coach for the women's soccer team at The Citadel. Prior to his stint in Charleston, he was the tournament director and academy coach at Global Premier Soccer and was a coach at James Island Youth Soccer Club. He concluded his own career at St. Mary's University as a center back and competed for the Texas United PDL in Summer 2017.

2021 marks Babba's second year on staff as an assistant coach and the recruiting coordinator. He has more than a decade of college coaching experience, devoting the 2018 and 2019 seasons to the Elon University women's soccer team as an assistant coach before arriving at UK. Before that, he served as the head coach at both Bryan College and Delta State University and spent four seasons as the assistant coach at Mississippi College. Babba was a four-year starter at Belhaven College, finishing his career as the Blazers' second all-time leading scorer with 37 goals and 18 assists for 92 total points.

Chapman begins his fourth season on staff with UK after successful coaching tenures in the Scottish Premier League. He managed Kilmarnock, Albion Rovers, Dumbarton, and Annan, winning over 125 games in charge of those clubs at the Premier League level. He helped lead Kilmarnock to the Premier League twice, a Scottish Women's Cup in 2002, and a First Division Cup title in 2002.

O CAPTAIN! MY CAPTAIN!

Ahead of the 2021 season, Kentucky announced that redshirt fifth-year midfielder Marissa Bosco and fifth-year forward Julia Grosso will serve as team captains. This marks the fifth-straight season Bosco has served in this role while Grosso holds the title for the second year in a row. Proven leaders both on and off the field, both experienced players will provide immense leadership for this young Wildcat team.

ALL AROUND THE WORLD

The 2021 Kentucky women's soccer roster has five countries represented — Denmark, Iceland, Germany, Sweden, and the United States. Of the 11 newcomers this year, four of the student-athletes hail from foreign countries. The Wildcats have a total of 10 international players, the most out of any SEC school. LSU has the second highest number of international players at seven.

Sophomores Marie Lynge Olesen and Maria Olsen (yes, those are different people), as well as freshmen Laura Nielsen, Sara Makoben-Blessing, and Emilie Rhode, are from Denmark. Junior Valdis Björg Sigurbjörnsdóttir and sophomore Úlfa Úlfarsdóttir hail from Iceland, junior Emily Hähnel and freshman Lilly Huber come from Germany, and freshman Matilda Liljefors is from Sweden.

Additionally, 12 states are represented on the 32-woman roster. The Wildcats have three players from Florida, Illinois, Michigan, and Ohio; two from Indiana and North Carolina; and one each from California, Georgia, Maryland, Kentucky, Texas, and Virginia.

SMARTY CATS

Just as they are on the pitch, the Wildcats are undoubtedly excelling in the classroom. Marissa Bosco, Emily Hähnel, Miranda Jimenez, Josie Knight, Gretchen Mills, Madi Rennie, Jordyn Rhodes, Hannah Richardson, Peyton Rimko, Sarah Siekkinen, Steph Stull, and Caroline Trout were named to the 2020 SEC Fall Academic Honor Roll, while Logan Boggs, Madison Hill, Marie Lynge Olesen, Úlfa Úlfarsdóttir and Anna Young landed on the SEC First-Year Academic Honor Roll. Among other qualifications, a student-athlete must have a 3.0 grade-point average for the preceding academic year or a cumulative 3.0 GPA in order to be named to the list.

Last academic year, UK Athletics broke the school records for the NCAA Graduation Success Rate (GSR) and the Federal Graduation Rate. Kentucky has broken or tied the GSR record every year since the NCAA began measuring the statistic in 2005. UK student-athletes have also posted an overall grade-point average over 3.0 in 18 consecutive semesters. Despite the unique challenges presented by the pandemic, the Kentucky women's soccer program posted an impressive overall team GPA of 3.507 during the 2020-21 academic year.

SHOWING SUPERB CHARACTER

Back in March, UK Athletics announced that 24 student-athletes would be inducted into the 2021 class of the Frank G. Ham Society of Character. Founded in 1998 and named after a longtime UK administrator, the society annually honors Wildcats who have shown an extraordinary commitment to academic excellence, athletic participation, personal development, career preparation, and those who serve as a role model.

Inducted into the society from the UK women's soccer team was then-junior Peyton Rimko, a defender from West Lake, Ohio. Now

HIGH HOPES FOR JIMENEZ

Before the 2020 season began, the Kentucky women's soccer program was unsure of whether Miranda Jimenez would be able to compete in the season opener, or even play during the season at all. In 2019, the then-junior started in the first seven games and recorded two assists before suffering a season-ending injury to her MCL at Eastern Kentucky on Sept. 12, 2019. She was UK's leading point-scorer as a freshman, even notching the game-winning goal at Mississippi State on Oct. 8, 2017.

Jimenez was a threat on the pitch that the program missed most of 2019, but she worked hard for a triumphant return in 2020. Jimenez saw action in just three games last season, but was listed as day-to-day following an injury scare at South Carolina. After continuing to work hard all preseason, the Wildcats had long anticipated her impactful return to the pitch in 2021. Their patience has paid off, as Jimenez has played in every game so far this season, even starting in two of them. She has tallied three assists, adding even more depth to Kentucky's explosive frontline. She notched her first goal of the year at EKU on Sept. 9 before adding another one against Bellarmine on Sept. 19.

WINNING ON AND OFF THE FIELD

Kentucky has long been a leader in sports science nationwide. The Wildcats began a sports science partnership with Nike in 2010 and they have been a leading institution for research since then. With the addition of Chris Morris to the UK Athletics staff in 2017 as the director of applied sports sciences, Kentucky women's soccer has taken the application of sports science to a new level. With Morris on staff, performance science at Kentucky is responsible for developing and implementing the best practice strategies to reduce injury risk and enhance readiness, performance, and recovery. Every practice, the program has a trainer or strength and conditioning coach on-site that is watching their Catapult heart rate monitors and GPS trackers, which track sprints, distances, etc. The same system is used by Bayern Munich FC, Real Madrid, PSG, Celtic FC, the Golden State Warriors, and Clemson football.

NATIONAL EXPOSURE

This season, the Wildcats will be featured on national television twice. The game on Thursday, Sept. 30 at Mississippi State in Starkville, Miss. will be on the SEC Network, while UK's home game against LSU on Thursday, Oct. 14 will also be carried by SEC Network. Both televised games will kick off at 7 p.m. ET.

In 2020, the program appeared on national television four times, with one game on ESPN and three games on the SEC Network. Additionally, all of Kentucky's home games — whether conference or non-conference — will be broadcasted live on SEC Network+.

LAST TIME OUT FOR KENTUCKY

Despite Jordyn Rhodes netting her ninth goal of the year, the University of Kentucky women's soccer team fell to South Carolina, 2-1, on Sunday afternoon at the Wendell and Vickie Bell Soccer Complex.

With the loss, the Wildcats drop to 6-4-2 (0-3) on the season while the Gamecocks improve to 8-2 (3-0).

The Wildcats had a chance to jump out to an early lead, but the attempt from Rhodes less than a minute into the first half bounced off the crossbar. However, it was the Gamecocks who struck first in the 29th minute after a header from Jylissa Harris.

UK quickly found the equalizer in the 31st minute when a foul inside the box awarded the Wildcats a penalty kick. Rhodes converted the attempt with a shot to the lower left, marking her ninth goal of the season as the Wildcats and Gamecocks went into the break with one goal apiece.

Julia Grosso ripped a shot from nearly 25 yards out in the 60th minute, but her attempt to put the Wildcats in the lead was denied by Gamecock goalkeeper Heather Hinz. Rhodes had another good look for Kentucky from the left side which was again stopped by Hinz before Remi Swartz gave

South Carolina the game-winner in the 78th minute.

At the conclusion of the match, both the Wildcats and Gamecocks had 10 shots each while UK held a 6-5 advantage in corner kicks. Laura Nielsen finished with three saves between the posts and Hinz made two for South Carolina.

SCOUTING THE BULLDOGS

Mississippi State enters Thursday's contest against Kentucky with a 2-4-3 mark on the season, with its pair of wins coming against Louisiana and Southeast Missouri. The Bulldogs are 0-2-1 in SEC play, dropping to both LSU, 0-2, and Florida, 2-1, while playing Georgia to a 2-2 draw.

Three players in Onyi Echegini, Hailey Farrington-Bentil, and Minigo Karnley lead the team with two goals apiece, while Hannah Telleys and Andrea Tyrrell have both netted one. Echegini and Ally Perry have both dished out a pair of assists, and Echegini paces the Bulldogs with six points, 28 shots, and 12 shots on goal.

Goalkeeper Maddy Anderson has played every minute between the posts, registering 36 saves for a .783 save percentage. She has recorded three shutouts on the year against Louisiana, Southeast Missouri, and Minnesota. She registered a career-high 13 saves at Iowa on Sept. 5, good enough to be tied for first in individual game-highs in the conference. She earned SEC Defensive Player of the Week honors on Sept. 7.

Prior to the season opener last month, four Bulldogs were named to the SEC preseason watch list: Anderson, Alysa D'Aloise, Echegini, and Karnley. Anderson also landed on the SEC All-Freshman Team in 2020.

The Bulldogs are led by head coach James Armstrong who has amassed a 16-16-9 record in his three years at the helm. In 2020, he guided Mississippi State to the SEC Tournament for the second year in a row, which was the first time the program had back-to-back tournament appearances.
